

Embassy Theatre Study Trips COMMITMENT TO COMMUNITY Volunteers

The Embassy Theatre is looking for volunteers to fill roles in its new educational study trips, beginning this fall.

- Facilitators will work closely with groups of students, usually third graders. They will engage students in a study of the building and of its recent history. Those interested in expanding or utilizing their teaching experience or skills are encouraged to inquire.
- We will also need tour guides for a short, specific tour within the study trip time. Embassy tour guides or others interested in learning more about the building might be interested in serving as docents for the tour portion of the study trips.

Those interested would be expected to attend a training session to familiarize them with the program. This program is open to current Embassy volunteers or others interested in working with kids while passing on the lessons and history of the Embassy Theatre. Please contact Development Director Steve Linsenmayer at steve@fwembassytheatre.org or 260.424.6287, extension 240.
